

Call for papers!

Journal of Patient-Centered Research and Reviews is actively seeking original manuscript submissions on the topic of PATIENT SELF-MANAGEMENT OF CARE.

Various chronic conditions — diabetes, hypertension, obesity, arthritis, asthma, etc. — require patients take a more active role in their health care. Their clinically informed behaviors are defined as “self-management” and make up an important part of patient-centered care coordination in primary care settings.

JPCRR’s call for papers on this important topic remains open through July 20, 2018. Submissions received by that date will receive expedited peer review for potential inclusion in an upcoming issue.

JPCRR offers double-blind peer review and gratis open access publication with NO author fees of any kind.

Article categories include:

- Original Research
- Systematic or Narrative Review
- Quality Improvement
- Brief Report
- Topic Synopsis, and more

For complete author instructions or to submit a paper, visit our website: www.aurora.org/jpcrr.

A quarterly medical journal founded in 2014 by Aurora Health Care, JPCRR spans the complete spectrum of health disciplines. Available to readers worldwide, JPCRR stands out among gratis open access journals for the diversity and scientific rigor of its articles.

For questions regarding submission, contact the editorial office at JPCRR@aurora.org.